A BIG HIT.

Made By Local Dramatic Talent—The Play and The Actors
As Seen By The Critic.

When the Citizen editorially suggested the advisability of developing the possible dramatic talent at Rumford Falls and Mexico, we did not know that Prof. Charron had in course of preparation a play to be given by the pupils of the College of Dramatic Arts but such was the case, and last Friday night the play, "Wedded But No Wife," was presented to a very large audience at the Ridgeway Opera House. The great success of the play and the surprising talent exhibited by those taking part, are of more than passing interest and reflect credit upon Prof. Charron and the young men and women composing the cast of characters.

The circumstance that the students taking part in the entertainment were nearly all handicapped by not being natural English speaking persons, added to the fact that they are nearly all employed in the mills, and were very limited in their opportunities for study and rehearsal, entitles them to a full measure of appreciation on the part of the public.

The play is a story of a miller's daughter, Elsie Derwent, secretly marrying a young nobleman, Basil Lawrence, and the subsequent intrigues of Lady Harrington, Basil's mother, to keep the young couple separated. The young man meets with an accident and loses his memory, and is kept away from his young wife whom he devotedly loved, but cannot recall to his injured memory. While in this state of mind he is lured by Lady Isabel Hyde, aided by Lady Harrington. Elsie in the meanwhile, has been driven forth from her father's home because she refuses to marry Squire Thornton. Squire Thornton holds a mortgage upon John Derwent's farm, and demands Elsie as the price of cancelling it. Elsie, supposing herself deserted by her husband, goes forth to make her way in the world as best she can. Squire Thornton, a villain, obtains the aid of an old hag and some confederates to capture Elsie. The effort is made, but ends in the death of the squire who is shot by a cousin of Elsie, the Beauty of Lynne. They two escape, and go to London where Elsie becomes a famous singer under the name of Melle Cerani. As each she meets her husband, his mother, and Lady Isabel Hyde.

The husband finally has his remembrance of past events restored by listening to an old time familiar song sung by Melle Cerani, whom he perceives to be the woman of his dreams. The past life seemed to him. The result is a restoration of the miller's daughter both to her husband and father.

The following is cast of characters:

John Lawrence	Mr. L. Baker
John Harrington	Mr. O. Filiant
John Derwent	Mr. J. McMenamin
Squire Thornton	Mr. E. S. LaPlante
Isabel Hyde	Mr. E. Monchamp
Dickie Brown	Mr. J. Murtle
Hammy Tom	Mr. J. Monchamp
Black Joe	F. McCarthy
Mountain Mag
Countess Harrington
Miss Delphine LaPlante
Isabel Hyde
Miss Lillian Thompson
Beauty of Lynne	Miss Maggie Goggin
Elsie Derwent
Melle Cerani	Miss Georgie LaPlante

Every part was well performed, some deserving of special praise. Mr. Baker as Basil, or Lord Harrington, was well adapted to his part, and entered into the spirit of the affair in earnest. His portrayal of the husband, bereft of memory of past events was extra good. Mr. Filiant as old John Derwent, was well made up and effectively acted the part.

Mr. J. McMenamin, while he was made up in the style of a villain, and performed that disagreeable part well, suffered for lack of an adequate make up for a squire. Old Lord Hyde, by Mr. LaPlante was a success, and created much laughter in his effort to make love to the Beauty of Lynne. His was purely a comedy character—the make up and acting were very good.

The Monchamp brothers gave a very pleasing juggling act, accompanied with comedy acting. Mr. Murtle as Hammy Tom served to keep back the tears from the eyes of the sentimental for he always appeared with some comic maneuver just in the nick of time. He was a success. Mr. McCarthy cleverly performed the part of the old Mountain Mag that it was hard to realize that a veritable shrewd devil was not in reality before the foot lights.

GREAT GAMBLING RAID

Nine Rumford Falls Men Captured in the Midst of a Poker Game.

A sensational raid was made last Saturday night about half past eleven upon an alleged gambling den. The account as given by the officers is as follows: Suspicion had been directed against a certain room in the Grand View Hotel, where an all night assembly was known to have frequently taken place. Saturday afternoon a trunk, that came as baggage marked for a man who was known to frequent that room, was seized and found to contain a live gallon keg of whiskey. That with other evidence lead the officers to believe unlawful proceedings were taking place in that room, and accordingly at about 11 p. m. Saturday night, officers Merrill, Roach, Bisbee, Taylor, Bell and Poor, planned a descent upon the place. As Merrill approached, far in the lead, a sentinel shouted a warning, and made good his escape. Instantly the lights were put out in the room, and when Merrill rushed in he found himself in the midst of about a dozen men desperately struggling to get out. The officer grappled with the foremost, and Roach seized upon a man who had passed the first officer. The other four officers were almost immediately upon the scene, each engaging a man in a rough and tumble fight. When the men found the force large enough to make a further fight useless, they surrendered.

When the lights were turned on, the room presented an appearance that must have caused the owner of the place some sorrow. Out of the wreckage the officers were able to gather up the evidence of a poker game. These with two coats and hats, were taken to the police station, after the nine men were rounded up. The men were all well known to the police, and although the hour was near midnight, bail commissioner Stevenson was aroused, and most of them gave bail for their appearance in court Monday.

All day Sunday and Monday until late in the afternoon, the gambling raid was the chief topic of conversation on the streets. At an early hour Monday, men began crowding into the court room, and were disappointed when it was announced that the trial was postponed until 2:30 p. m. As the hour approached for the trial in the afternoon, the crowd began arrived and can be procured of the Secretary, Mr. Wallhoff. St. Saens, "Samson and Delilah," will be taken up at the next meeting and it is hoped that a large number will be present.

CHURCH INFORMATION.

Baptist.
There were two baptisms at the Baptist church Sunday, Rev. Theodore L. Frost officiating. The candidates were Mr. Isaac Dunn and Miss Dorothy Longley. The first of the series of evening lectures announced last week was given by the pastor, the subject being "Jonah Overboard." The subject of the morning sermon Dec. 2nd, will be "Bells and Pomegranates."

Universalist.
Communion service was held at the Universalist church Sunday morning. Rev. E. W. Webber's subject was "Working with God." A beautiful solo by Mrs. F. O. Walker with violin obligato by Lewis M. Irish called forth many words of commendation from the audience. "The Discouraged Fisherman," was the subject of the evening lecture. A solo by Miss Claudia Priest accompanied by Mr. Irish on the violin was much appreciated. Mr. Webber will speak on "Ideals" next Sunday morning, and will give a lecture-sermon in the evening. The chorus choir will give some enjoyable selections.

DEATH OF CARL C. F. HANSEN.

Carl C. F. Hansen, a young man 22 years old, a native of Denmark, died last Thursday at 7 p. m., after a week's illness of typhoid pneumonia. He was married about three months ago to a young woman who came from Denmark to become his bride. The body will rest in the receiving tomb until arrangements can be made to send it to Denmark. The young man has a father and mother living there. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. George A. Martin.

ODD FELLOWS AND REBEKAHS ENTERTAIN.

Everyone remembers with pleasure, the series of socials given by the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows last winter, and will be glad to hear that another series of entertainments is to be given this season, beginning next Monday evening, Dec. 3rd, in I. O. O. F. Hall. The public is invited to come and enjoy the fine program that has been prepared by the committee: Mrs. A. L. Stanwood, Mrs. McGregor and Miss Mildred Brown. Several new and novel features will be introduced. One that cannot fail to please, is a scarf drill given by a number of young ladies. Miss Agnes Haven Russell and Mrs. F. E. Bartlett accompanied by Miss Marie Bartlett on the violin, will sing, and the reader of the evening is Mr. Bennett D. Charron. The orchestra will also furnish music.

Refreshments of cake and coffee will be served and home made candies will be on sale. The committee on refreshments is composed of Mrs. James Morse, Mrs. James DeMerritt and Mrs. John Hadley.

The committee of Odd Fellows to attend to the general arrangements consists of Ardel Hall, George Patten and Ernest Edgecombe. Mrs. Ralph M. Woodsum, Noble Grand, co-operates with this committee.

The fact that this entertainment is given under the auspices of the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, is a guarantee that it will be good.

HOTEL RUMFORD CHANGES HANDS DEC. 5th.

The many rumors about town that local men were negotiating for the lease of Hotel Rumford, proved unfounded. The lease has been given to Walter Bray, recently of the Lancy House, Pittsfield. Mr. Bray will take possession Dec. 5.

CARROL J. ROBERTS.

The death of Carrol J. Roberts occurred last week at his father's home in Virginia. He was 22 years old and was an invalid from earliest childhood. Rev. G. A. Martin conducted the services at the house Nov. 24th.

SNOW FLAKE CARNIVAL.

The "Snow Flake Carnival" will be the attraction at Rumford Falls, Dec. 5th and 6th. This will be the regular semi annual sale conducted by the Universalist Ladies' Aid Society, and has been planned for since the last sale, and many very unique, ornamental and useful articles have been made and contributed for this sale. The sale will occur in McMenamin Hall. The following ladies will have charge of the sale: Mrs. Dowling, Mrs. McKean, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Niles, Mrs. Humphrey, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. McCarthy, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Kennard, Mrs. Atwood, Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Steinfield, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Shepard, Mrs. Bisbee, Mrs. Mineberg, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Pettengill, Mrs. Osgood, Mrs. Israelson, Mrs. Vergin and Mrs. Webber. Refreshments will be served.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Plentiful Evening Revenues—A Common Dedication to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

way in which a boy of ten years gets up in the morning, works, plays, studies, and we will tell you just what kind of a man he will make. The boy who is late at school stands a poor chance to be a prompt man. The boy who neglects his duties, he they ever so small, and then excuses himself by saying, "I forgot; I didn't think," will never be a reliable man. And the boy who finds pleasure in the sufferings of weaker things will never be a noble, generous, kindly man—a gentleman.

Woman's Influences.

So great is the influence of a sweet-minded woman on those around her that it is almost boundless. It is to her that friends come in seasons of sorrow and sickness, for help and comfort. One soothing touch of her kindly hands works wonders in the feverish child; a few words let fall from her lips in the ear of a sorrow-stricken sister will do much to raise the load of grief that is bowing its victim down to the dust in anguish. The husband comes home worn out with the pressure of business, and feeling irritable with the world in general, but when he enters the cozy sitting-room, and sees the blaze of the fire, and meets his wife's smiling face he succumbs in a moment to the soothing influences, which act as a Balm of Gilead to his wounded spirits, that are wearied with the stern realities of life. The rough school-boy flies into a rage from the taunts of his companions, to find solace in his mother's smile; the little one, full of grief with her large trouble, finds a haven of rest on her mother's breast; and one might go on with instance after instance of the influence that a sweet-minded woman has in the social circle with which she is connected. Beauty is an insignificant power, when compared with hers.

One Day at a Time.

One day at a time conscientiously lived up to will keep the eyes bright and the cheeks round and rosy. Don't begin to worry about things days before-hand. It will be time enough when they happen. It is the dread of this that we are educating our young men for idle gentlemen, trying to make lawyers, preachers, doctors and clerks out of material that is needed for blacksmiths, carpenters, mechanics, and other honest "beavers of wood and drawers of water." It is a mistake, and a big one, to teach boys and girls to believe that labor is disgraceful, and to do nothing for a living is more becoming to society. Hang such society! It is rotten to the core and is running our country today; and there are sons and daughters who are now being educated to play the "leading lady" and "walking gentleman" in the great drama of life, who will light out for the poor house or the penitentiary before the curtain drops on the last act of the play to which they have been educated by their too indulgent parents.

A Few Don'ts for Husbands.

Don't forget that the sunshine side of a woman's nature cannot outlive coldness, indifference and neglect. Don't growl about womanly extravagances so long as you are keeping your own personal bills in good running order. Don't meddle with the affairs of the house. The man who must know every little detail, and counts the cost of every household move is an unmitigated nuisance. Don't expect smiles and kisses from the being who labors from early morn till night for the comfort and happiness of a man who has not soul enough to appreciate her.

Don't forget that the patient little woman you call your wife was once your sweetheart. A caress now and then, or a tender word costs so little and means so much to the woman of your choice.

Thanksgiving.

One cannot be wholly indifferent to one's birthday. It is a yearly milestone on life's journey. Christmas has a tradition, New Year's is an almanac day. Decoration Day of sad memories and the Fourth of July a hubbub, but Thanksgiving is a recognition of the goodness of God, as manifested in the kindly returns from Old Mother Earth, an inspiration for contemplating the mysteries of the seed time and harvest. While presidential proclamations and gubernatorial supplicants fix Thanksgiving Day as an annual festival for us, it is proper that the day should be observed in the way they indicate, but we also remember, after our devotions and we return to enjoy the blessings of plenty so profusely lavished upon us this year, that there will be many places, occupied by dear ones one year ago, that will be vacant today and a tinge of sadness must pervade the heart. Their memories are precious and we would not forget them; nor should we forget to thank the beneficent Giver of all good for the manifold provisions he has made, that, though this is a land of sad farewells and tearful adieus, there is a land of joyous meetings and greetings, where partings are unknown and even amid earth's tears and weepings may we not rejoice in thankfulness, gratefulness and hopefulness.

Something for Boys.

Many people seem to forget that character grows; that it is not something to put on, ready made, with womanhood or manhood; but day by day, here a little and there a little, grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength, until good or bad, it becomes almost a part of mail. Look at a man of business—prompt, reliable, conscientious, yet clearheaded and energetic. When do you suppose he developed all these admirable qualities? When he was a boy? Let us see the

WHAT IS CATARRH?

Simple Way to Overcome the Dangers of this Disagreeable Disease.

Catarrh is an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose, throat and lungs, with many annoying symptoms. In this climate there are few who do not suffer from this disagreeable disease, often in a chronic and dangerous state.

Fortunately, within the last few years, a simple and reliable treatment for catarrhal troubles has been found. Hyomei, a combination of healing and germ-killing balsams, that, when breathed through the nasal pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, reaches the thickest cells in the respiratory organs, carrying its healing and health-giving properties to every part where the catarrhal poison is present.

Used in this way, Hyomei kills all catarrhal germs, drives the poison from the system and heals all irritation that may be present in the mucous membrane.

If you have the ordinary catarrhal symptoms, such as offensive breath, burning pains in the throat, cough, raising of mucus, difficulty in breathing, sneezing, huskiness, discharge from the nose, droppings in the throat, coughing spasms, etc., begin the use of Hyomei at once.

A complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1. extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents, and is sold by The Cote Pharmacy, 4211 Williamstown, Rumford Falls, and Nathan Reynolds of Canton under an absolute guarantee that it will cure catarrh or money will be refunded.

Need a good cathartic? A pill is best. Say a pill like DeWitt's Little Early Risers. About the most reliable on the market. Sold by Blowers & Valles.

WHO ARE ANARCHISTS?
WHAT IS ANARCHY?

The old saying about a bad name sticking to a dog, whether he deserves it or not, may be the explanation for attributing to anarchists the various bomb throwing outrages, such as the recent wanton attempt to blow up the vatican in Rome.

To a normal mind anarchy as popularly understood, and exploited in the newspapers of the world, seems too villainous to be the deliberate policy of any body of sane men. Yet we are told that organized bodies of men sworn to the destruction of all agents of constituted authority, exist in various parts of the world, several of them being in the United States. Is this all a fairy story, invented by the police and sensational newspapers?

That there are men who throw bombs, and commit dastardly deeds can not be doubted; but in instances like the vatican outrage, the perpetrators may be just desperate plunderers, bent upon gathering up valuables after an explosion. There hardly seems any other reason for the attack upon St. Peter's. Men aiming to destroy constituted authority would not be likely to attack the vatican or the Pope; but if seeking treasure, they might be easily attracted to that repository of treasures—treasures of priceless value.

There is some confusion, even in the minds of lexicographers, as to the meaning of the word anarchist.

A dictionary of the English language, by F. A. March, L. L. D., gives the definition of Anarchist in these words: "Benefactor," "Evil doer." This gives one a choice of meanings as well as proves the word to have two meanings. Preference is given to the former definition.

A state of anarchy means society without government. If good and regular order prevailed, and social and business affairs were conducted in a just manner, without government supervision, anarchy would then be said to be desirable. If on the other hand, disorder and confusion and dishonesty in business prevailed, anarchy would be called undesirable.

We have heard anarchists lecture and read many printed arguments in favor of that state of society, and failed to hear or read anything even suggesting the violent destruction of human life or property. The impression conveyed to us was that the advocate of anarchy had conceived the possibility of all mankind becoming perfect, both in morals and judgment. Assuming this as a possibility they argued that government was unnecessary.

We realize that the contrary condition exists, and judging by the past, will not greatly improve in the near future,—hence society without government is an "iridescent dream." If all who have "iridescent dreams," are to be classed as pests, most of us will be objects of suspicion at one time or another. It may be that much thinking along these idealistic lines may have unbalanced some minds, and caused wild talk and possibly such inhuman acts as bomb throwing. If that is true, it is no more to the discredit of anarchy than it is to the discredit of a dozen, other theories that men have become insane over, and in consequence committed fiendish deeds.

The political economists years ago, effectually disposed of the theory of anarchy, then known by another name, by deciding that government was a "necessary inconvenience" or as some said, "a necessary evil." The millennium so long ago expected, and even now looked forward to by some oriental philosophers, is as impossible of attainment as idealistic anarchy.

The advocacy of either is sheer waste of time and energy, and possibly a sign of approaching insanity; but we should not be too quick to credit the press reports of organized bands of lunatics. The anarchist has a bad name, but so far as we can see, he is no worse than the dog that suffers because of the evil reputation some one gave him without his consent.

"SQUIRMED LIKE A SPEARED EEL."

Our plain speaking may strike some as a little out of the common, but the truth need offend only those to whom the truth is unwelcome.

Artemus Ward, who made Oxford county famous the world over, by his wit, once told a very funny story about a certain elderly Shaker, who "squirmed like a speared eel," at a "sly thrust" given him by the great humorist. If there are any of the old Shaker's descendants here about, (we forgot that Shakers are not blest with descendants, so will say disciples,) who are squirming at any of the facts stated in the Citizen, all the consolation we can give them is to advise them to straighten out, take their medicine, and look forward to an ultimate healing of the wounds.

FIELD AGENT FOR THE CITIZEN.

The Citizen has engaged Mr. Wm. E. Moore, a gentleman well known in Rumford and throughout the state, to represent the paper in field work. He will call upon old subscribers and solicit new subscriptions, also job work and printing of all kinds.

Mr. Moore is a gentleman well qualified to represent the paper, and explains its policy and the reasons why every family in Rumford and this part of Oxford county should become subscribers and supporters of the people's paper.

OUR VOTING CONTEST.

Several weeks ago the Citizen announced a voting contest with conditions providing that three diamond rings would be given away to the three ladies who got the largest number of votes before Dec. 22.

The contest in class A which includes Rumford Falls, reminds us somewhat of our last Presidential voting contest; it has been a little too one-sided to be interesting. Mrs. Blanchard went into the contest full of life and determination to win, and the result was, she distanced the field in the first quarter and today is running alone.

If Rumford Falls could produce another contestant of Mrs. Blanchard's capacity to get there, the diamond ring contest in class A would be a record breaker, but there seems to be no one who cares to undertake the job and we don't know as we blame them because they would doubtless get distanced as the others have been.

However, the Citizen does not propose to let Mrs. Blanchard's earnest efforts go unappreciated. Because Judge Parker found himself entered in the wrong class, and found votes such tremendous hard things to get, was no reason why our Rough Rider from San Juan should not keep the pole through to the White House with all his accustomed strenuousness. Nor should the leading contestant in our contest lose the opportunity of holding the pole to the close because her opponents have found themselves in the wrong class and withdrawn.

Believing in and determined to live up to the principle that all honest effort should be rewarded, the Citizen has decided not to call off the contest in Class A as it has a right to do according to its published conditions, but has decided to show its appreciation of Mrs. Blanchard's efforts by giving her the ring providing a certain count which has been agreed upon is secured. Nearly four weeks remain in which to secure this ring and we are confident, as is Mrs. Blanchard, that the ring will be hers on Dec. 22.

RODERIGUE-TALBOT.

Marriage of Popular Rumford Falls Couple.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that of Adelard Joseph Roderigue and Eva Adelle Talbot, Monday morning at seven o'clock at the church of St. John the Baptist, Rev. J. A. Laframme performing the marriage ceremony, using the high mass.

The bride was attended by her father, Adolphe Francis Talbot and the groom by his brother, Mr. Roderigue of Farmington.

The service was a very impressive one and the music rendered by the full choir was exceedingly fine. A beautiful Ave Maria was sung by an uncle of the groom, who is a singer of considerable ability.

A large attendance of friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony which united in marriage two of Rumford Falls' popular young people.

Mrs. Roderigue is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Talbot of this place, and is a favorite in social circles. Mr. Roderigue is a native of Farmington and has been in business with William Cyr in the firm of Roderigue & Cyr of Waldo street for several years, and has a large circle of friends both here and in Farmington.

The bride was married in her traveling dress, a beautiful creation of brown broadcloth and gold braid, with hat to match.

A host of friends of the young couple accompanied them to the railroad station, and kept up a fusillade of rice and confetti until the train pulled out. Mr. and Mrs. Roderigue went to Boston to spend a week and will then visit Mr. Roderigue's relatives in Farmington several weeks before returning to Rumford Falls where they will make their home at No. 97 Hancock street, occupying a part of the house in which the bride's sister, Mrs. William Cyr lives.

THE ROLL OFF.

The roll off at the bowling alley Monday was hotly contested, and was no man's victory until the last ball was rolled by Andrews. He missed a spare by a breath. Tucker and Shea changed positions from the week before. A study of the score shows the ups and downs of the players. After the roll off many of the players made larger scores than in the contest, and several qualified for the next contest.

The score:

Holfe	75	86	71	232
Tucker	100	89	96	285
Thompson	76	81	81	238
Gilpatrick	72	66	76	214
Shea	92	85	98	275
Anderson	89	90	74	253
Brigham	68	91	82	241
Morton	73	74	78	225
Mace	86	72	76	234
Chadwick	68	87	82	237
Andrews	107	95	83	285
Gregor	88	80	74	242
Kellogg	78	89	72	240
Wilson	76	94	82	252
Guptill	84	73	76	233
Frank	87	85	77	249
Leclair	66	78	82	226

It will be seen from the above score that if they had been rolling to qualify, not a man except the three winners, would have succeeded, as it requires a score of 200 in three successive strings to qualify for the weekly roll off. A score made in the roll off does not qualify a player.

THE WILD WEST.

The Second Lecture in The Dixfield Course By L. C. Bateman, A Great Success.

The second lecture in the course at Dixfield was delivered last Thursday evening by L. C. Bateman, and in spite of the inclement weather a very large number were present, and enjoyed an evening that many pronounced interesting far beyond their anticipation.

Mr. Bateman spoke regarding a trip he made some years ago to the western part of our country. He began by comparing the crude social environments of the past generation in the frontier states, with the civilization now making those states the center of a high standard of moral and intellectual life.

He referred to the decline in the power of the lecturer platform and the pulpit, but explained the reason for it, and, although it did not suit him particularly well, he saw no reason to fear for the moral and intellectual progress of the people, in consequence. The speaker gave an interesting account of the cowboys and defended them from the character often times given them in stories and newspaper articles, written for the most part by men who never met one face to face.

The cowboy is exteriorly rough, because his occupation is rough, but the typical cowboy is both kind hearted and intelligent, and animated by a spirit of generosity, that, were he placed in position to be so, would make him a philanthropist.

The speaker had much to say of the richness of the soil, and his description of the black, rich, productive and easily worked land, made our New England rock ribbed hard pan, seem almost like a desert; but he aptly enlarged upon some of the blessings that go along with our hard and shallow soil, and when he had finished that part of his lecture, there was no grand rush to organize an emigration society.

His description of the Platte river, that, while about 2000 miles long, is called a small river, contained much that was new to many of his hearers. The fact that for nearly ten months of the year the river presents to view nothing but a bed of shining sand was explained by saying that the sand constitutes a filter and is so deep that the water flows either through or under it, and is not seen, except in the season when freshets are in order. Then the river is a raging torrent.

The lecturer drew a vivid word picture of a cattle stampede, and the manner in which the cowboys control the fear inspired animals. The slightest thing some times serves to start a stampede. The fearful yell of a coyote often is a cause. Thousands of the cattle start, always following a leader. Some horses are always saddled and ready for an emergency. At the beginning of a stampede the cowboys mount their horses and ride to the head of the herd, and continue along by the side of the leader, pushing his head away, and pressing hard against him, causing him to run on a course which in the end becomes a circle, and that means that the whole herd is controlled by directing their course in a circle and this they continue until tired or their fear has departed from them, leaving the cowboy and his faithful horse masters of the situation.

One of the most interesting features of the lecture was Mr. Bateman's account of his visit to Red Cloud, the famous Sioux Indian chief. He described him as one of the finest types of the red men, a dignified and commanding appearing man, whose force of character was manifest before a word escaped his lips. Mr. Bateman questioned him through an interpreter about the great massacre, when 200 U. S. soldiers were killed in a battle with the Indians under the command of Red Cloud. The old chief, although blind, was instantly animated with new life, and the expression upon his features changed from the characteristic Indian immobility to one showing the greatest concern and interest. Red Cloud began a speech that was tinged with Indian eloquence and the resentment the race feel towards the Whites. Mr. Bateman listened in admiration and increasing respect for the Indian character, although he understood what was said only by interpretation.

He dwelt for some time upon the Indian question and made many things plain to his auditors, not heretofore any too well understood. His account of the way the Indians are cheated by the Whites on the reservations is, in fact, one of the most reprehensible schemes ever devised by any body of men to defraud another.

Mr. Bateman says that the commanders at the reservations are responsible for a system of graft that deprives the Indians of the larger part of the allowances made them by the government. This is accomplished by getting the Indians drunk, and then driving off the cattle that the government allows them. When the Indians come to themselves, and find their cattle gone, they complain to the commander, who tells them to go along with what's left and keep quiet or the soldiers will be put upon them. The Indians being powerless, submit, and the theft of their cattle is repeated time and again in this manner.

Miss Lizzie Russell added to the interest of the evening by effectively rendering several recitations.

Give children a remedy with a pleasant taste. Don't force unpleasant medicine down their throats. Kennedy's Laxative (containing) Honey and Tar is most pleasant to take. Children like it, and as a relief for colds, coughs, etc., there is nothing better. No opiates. Conforms to National Pure Food and Drug law. Sold by Bowers & Vallee.

Melvina Lambert and Ernest Socoy were united in marriage Sunday afternoon in St. John's church by Rev. J. A. Laframme. Both young people are well known here in town. Mrs. Socoy being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lambert. Mr. and Mrs. Socoy went to Berlin Monday to spend several weeks visiting relatives of the bride, after which they will return to Rumford Falls and make their home here.

GRAND VOTING CONTEST.

Three Diamond Rings To Be Given Away in the Citizen's Voting Contest to End December 22.

The Citizen has determined to give three Genuine Diamond Rings to the Oxford County ladies who get the largest number of votes in their classes before the above date.

Class A includes Rumford Falls, Class B includes Mexico and Riden-ville.

Class C includes all towns in Oxford county not included in classes A and B.

BASIS OF VOTING.

Each Copy of the Citizen will contain a coupon which deposited at the Citizen office on or before December 22, 1906, at 8 p. m. will count 1 vote. Each dollar paid on subscriptions to the Citizen will count 100 votes. Each dollar paid for advertising in the Citizen will count 25 votes. Each dollar paid to the Citizen for job work will count 25 votes.

CONDITIONS.

1. A person to be voted for must reside in her class district, but a person entitled to vote may cast them for a contestant in any class.
2. Positively no votes will be counted unless the money is paid in. Please do not ask us to depart from this condition.
3. Votes once credited to one contestant cannot be transferred to another.
4. This contest is on condition that at least two contestants enter each class and that active work for each be continued to the end.—The right to call off the contest in either class at any time providing this condition is not met is reserved.

These rings are genuine diamond rings ordered especially for this contest by local dealers and may be seen in their show windows. During this contest the Citizen will be furnished for $1.00 per year.

Christmas Gift Giving and its Connection with the Basement Department.

The custom of remembering ones friends, and especially the children, with a gift on Christmas Day, is one that is increasing each year, and has now reached enormous proportions. We commence ordering special lines of Holiday goods in February and from then until Thanksgiving we are constantly on the watch for things that are new and up-to-date, and yet a little better and a little different from the ordinary run of holiday merchandise, and above all else, that are right in price.

Having in view the inevitable rush and scramble for presents on the last few days before Christmas, this holiday opening on Dec. 5th during the day and evening is designed to afford an early opportunity for the inspection of our mammoth display of gift goods, and at the same time many special lots of goods will be on sale at prices for the day only, at which they cannot be duplicated. It will be interesting to your eyes and advantageous to your purse if you visit us on Dec. 5th. Remember that specials go on sale at 9 a. m. and continue during the day, or until sold.

Dear Sirs:— On July 28, 1905, about six weeks ago I was feeling very much worn out, (I am in my 83rd year) and felt that I must do something for myself. I kept around, I was extremely tired, and much of the time so dizzy that I could not walk straight across the floor. I finally procured a bottle of the "L. F." medicine and began taking them as prescribed. Very soon found they were helping me, and now after taking "L. F." a bottle and feeling well as could be expected for one of my age. Truly, Mrs. M. T. SYLVESTER.
The "L. F." will cure all young who are suffering with indigestion in any form, flatulence, nervousness, and all ailments of the stomach and bowels.
Beware of cheap imitations. Get the "L. F." from the original source, Dr. J. F. Reynolds, 1142 Prospect Ave., Rumford Falls, Maine.

The Week's News as Gathered by our Special Correspondent.

Rev. M. B. Howes of Mechanic Falls has accepted a call from the Baptist church and will begin his pastorate December 1st. The services Sunday were conducted by Mr. Howes and it is expected that he will also preach next Sunday.

Edward Jones of Livermore visited his mother, Mrs. A. A. Jones and his sister, Mrs. George Bennett, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Allen of Mechanic Falls were guests of W. P. Gammon and wife this week and attended the "Black Trial."

L. H. McMillan was in Mechanic Falls on business Friday.

Mrs. A. B. Parsons received word last week that her sister, Mrs. Harriet Fuller of Auburn was dead.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church met with Mrs. W. L. Wentworth Tuesday afternoon to sew for the fair which is to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 11th and 12th.

Rev. A. G. Warner returned Saturday from Richard's camp where he has been hunting for several days. When asked where his deer was, he enthusiastically remarked that as the baggage car would not accommodate the spread of the antlers, it was coming down Swift River by boat. Mr. Warner already has an enviable record as a hunter of small game and is rapidly establishing a reputation as a narrator of big game stories.

Mrs. A. J. Long was called to her home in Carthage Friday to care for her father, Daniel Barrett, who has the measles. His nephew, George Libby is also sick with pneumonia.

Mrs. O. E. Whitney picked a pretty bouquet of several kinds of flowers from her garden last week and is hoping to pick another to grace her table for Thanksgiving dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Carter have moved from Howard street to Virginia.

Eloise Parkard is recovering from an attack of whooping cough.

Miss Addie Whitman is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. Henry P. Holt, and celebrated her eighth birthday last Sunday, when she received many pretty gifts, among them a gold brooch and chain from her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Small and daughter, Carrie, are spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. Small's parents, Henry G. Thayer and wife of Dixfield, and will attend the ball given Thursday evening by the Order of Eastern Star in Tascum Opera House.

Fred Woodward, Frank Stanwood, Miss Bertha Edgecomb of Livermore Falls and Mrs. Lulu Foster spent Sunday at Holt's camp, Howard Pond.

G. H. Wills has finished the work of extending the water system on Oxford Avenue and Main street and now has eighteen houses on the line.

Harold Reynolds returned home last Wednesday from a visit with college friends in Orono.

An entertainment was given Saturday night at the close of the winter term of school at the school in Frye. The program was a very entertaining one and the scholars acquitted themselves creditably. The proceeds of the entertainment go to the School Improvement League. Miss Mary Taylor, who has taught the term very successfully, will spend a few weeks at home before commencing a term of fourteen weeks at the Byron school.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. McMillan are to be entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Chaffee.

A box supper and social will be held in the Baptist chapel Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Parsons called on friends in Dixfield and Smith's Crossing Sunday.

Joseph and Lyman Haynes, Charles Proctor and Frederick Deedy recently returned from a deer hunt at Carthage Pond. Joseph Haynes shot two deer and each of the other members of the party got one.

A. G. Staples of Canton and Miss Louise Staples were guests of F. A. Parsons and wife last Thursday.

Henry P. Holt has purchased the library business which has been conducted by F. E. Carman for a number of years. Mr. Holt's brothers, Fred and Preston are both employed by him; Preston as bookkeeper, and Fred as driver of the Mexico and Rumford Falls stage. In order that his residence may be conveniently near his place of business, Mr. Holt is having the upper story of the carriage house finished off into a cozy little flat and he and Mrs. Holt will move in as soon as it is completed, and will rent their house on Williams street.

Carl Greenblatt has begun the study of piano music under the direction of Mrs. Louise Staples.

Miss Marna Thomas of Byron is spending the week with her sister, Bertha, and is planning to board with her sister, and attend school here this winter.

Mrs. Charles Eaton has taken the agency for the California Perfume Co.

Mrs. James Gill will visit her sisters in Portland and Pittsfield before going to her home in the Provinces, where she expects to arrive in season to spend Christmas with her parents.

Mrs. Gill will remain in Canada this winter and will be joined by her husband in the spring.

N. L. Keene and son, Frank, of Livermore Falls were guests of her sister, Mrs. Wallace K. Hodgdon last week.

Charles Tucker, who has been visiting relatives in North Jay, spent several days this week with his brother, Bonnie V. Tucker, before returning to his home in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Hanlon spent Sunday with their son, Dr. O. L. Hanlon and wife. Mr. Hanlon has accepted a position in a paper mill near Bangor and went there this week to take charge of the mill. Mrs. Hanlon will spend the week with Dr. and Mrs. Hanlon and then go to Bangor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Goodwin and their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Wyman of Peru started for their winter home in Southern Pines, N. C., Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin are greatly missed in the community during their winter sojourn in the south. Their many friends join in wishing them a pleasant journey and a happy winter in the land of sunshine and flowers.

Miss Florence Whitman has been sick during the past week but is now able to attend school again.

F. A. Perkins held an auction of a peddler's pack last Friday. O. P. Smith was the auctioneer.

Chester Knox is finishing off a treatment in the second story of the carriage house belonging to H. P. Holt's livery stable.

A. L. Wills has purchased the lot adjoining the Dan Johnson place on Main street and intends to have a stable erected on it.

Mrs. Edward Holland, who is quite skilled in the art of horticulture, has in her collection of choice plants a lemon tree which has borne fruit this year, and the dessert for her Thanksgiving dinner will be flavored with a lemon picked from this tree. The lemons are much larger and superior in flavor to the lemons that can be purchased in the markets. Mrs. Holland also has a pretty ivy vine which was broken from the ivy growing on the White House at Washington, D. C.

Miss Martha Wyman, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. P. Goodwin, went to West Peru Sunday to stay with Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Wyman.

All the absent minded people do not live in the funny joke books; there are two in Mexico. When a man goes to his club or lodge he usually thinks to take his latch key with him, but as this man was going to church with his wife he never thought of the key—nor did she. So when church guests were returning home Sunday evening, they were much surprised to see a man mounting a ladder to a window in the second story of a house on Main street. The fact that the lady of the house was standing out in the cold watching proceedings prevented the passerby from giving the man a burglar's reception on the spot, and they found that it was only one of the well known citizens trying to break into his own house.

The frame of a two story house which contractor John Bernard is building on Mexico Heights for William McNeil, was blown down by the strong wind Friday morning.

CANTON HAPPENINGS.

As Observed and Told By The Citizen Reporter.

Canton Grange held an unusually large and interesting meeting on Saturday, Nov. 24th. This meeting being the nearest to Thanksgiving day, a delicious dinner was served, the menu consisting of roast chicken, cold meats, chicken pie, creamed potatoes, squash, cranberry sauce, bread, pickles, and a tempting variety of cakes and pies. As the close of the social dinner hour, grange opened, and each member being requested to furnish something appropriate to Thanksgiving day, a pleasing program was carried out. This included singing, readings, recitations, accounts by members and the discussion of an interesting question. A pleasant and helpful meeting was the result.

G. Mayford was in Lewiston the first of the week.

At the close of the Sabbath meeting last Friday night, a delightful entertainment was given by the children of the members. The ability of the children to entertain was shown by the fine manner in which vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc. were rendered. A delicious variety of refreshment was served, after which games were played and a general good time enjoyed.

Mrs. E. W. Howe was in town Saturday.

Miss Margaret Mason and brother, Sydney, of Livermore Falls visited over Sunday with their mother and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Oldham.

Mrs. Harriet Fuller, wife of George H. Fuller of Harwary street, Auburn, died Sunday, Nov. 18th, after a long illness. Mrs. Fuller was 64 years of age, and was a native of Hartford, she leaves a husband and two children, Mrs. Charles M. Stetson of Auburn and Charles E. Fuller of Lewiston.

Mrs. J. P. Swasey was in Lewiston and Auburn Monday.

Mrs. John Briggs and daughter, Miss Eva, have been enjoying a delightful visit with relatives at Free-man.

Mr. G. F. Towle, the veteran dancing master, is teaching a very large school at Turner Center.

Mrs. Francis Smith and grandson, George Grover, are visiting relatives and friends at Dover, Me.

Mr. E. C. Jones has been making much needed improvements about his buildings.

Miss Lucia Perry, who has been caring for Mrs. O. M. Richardson, has returned to Rumford Falls.

At a meeting held at Gilbert's Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 23rd, the Canton Public Library Association was formed. Dr. F. W. Morse, O. M. Richardson and C. H. Gilbert were chosen trustees.

Mr. Bert C. Lobben has sold his farm at the Point to Mr. Robt. of Gilbertville. Mr. and Mrs. Lobben will remain on the farm during the winter.

The second degree was worked on one candidate at the last meeting of Anasaghtook Lodge, I. O. O. F., and a fine supper of cold meats and pastry was served.

Sometimes it happens that a hunting trip is not necessary for deer shooting. Montelle Briggs, while on his cream route last week, shot a fine deer weighing 170 lbs. from the seat of his wagon.

Asia F. Hayford brought down two deer while on his hunting trip up country.

Mrs. H. T. Tarrill has been on the sick list the past week.

It must have been quite aggravating to the man who went into the woods without a gun to meet a fine large deer face to face, and the deer seemed to know that he was unarmed, for he made quite a close examination of him. The man was a guest of George Welch and the woods where the deer was seen is right back of Mr. Welch's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Daley and daughter, Pearl, enjoyed a drive to Carthage Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Woodman called on F. A. Parsons and wife Sunday.

The chicken pie supper given by the men of the Congregational church parish Friday evening in the vestry of the church, was a very enjoyable occasion, and the financial result was $25.26 above expenses. The committee were as follows: Pastry committee: Charles Fellows, T. A. Clifford, Claude Brown, Leon Reynolds, F. F. Balch. Chicken pie committee: Leon Small, E. H. Olsson, Harry Davis, M. C. McLeod, W. N. Hodgdon. The men on these committees deserve great praise for the work they did to make the supper a success, and although they do not have much practice in serving suppers, the ladies might have learned a valuable lesson if they could have taken a peep into the kitchen and seen the orderly manner in which the work was carried on. Each one had his own work and attended to it, therefore there was no hurry or confusion. The wants of the guests were attended to promptly and everything possible done to make the evening a pleasant one.

Mrs. L. A. Davis and granddaughter, Mrs. Mary Whitner, have returned from a visit to friends in Peru.

Is. T. M. Condit of Waterford recently visited his mother, Mrs. C. A. Condit, who is in very poor health.

Mr. Ernest Morgan of Woodfield has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Oscar Hardy.

The funeral services of Mrs. Henry Darnall were held at Union Hall, Canton Point, Saturday, Nov. 17th, Rev. H. H. Tilton of the Free Baptist church officiating.

These and Mabel Harvey have returned from a pleasant visit to their sister, Mrs. H. N. Gilbert, Rumford Falls.

Mrs. Frank Hackett, who has been ill, is now on the gain.

Foreman and Larry Newman are home from Portland for a few weeks.

Miss Lila Gilbert of the Times office, Rumford Falls, has been home on a few days' visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gilbert.

Nathan Reynolds and M. A. Waite, who have been on a hunting trip to Byron, each brought home a fine deer. Canton High School closed Friday, Nov. 23rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ferrand have lately moved from the Ward stand to the Chatham house on Pleasant street.

Master Ralph Gerald Newman, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Newman of 213 Summer street, Auburn, was one of the happy babies who won a prize at the baby show given by Auburn Grange last week. The prize was a gold ring.

News has been received of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Roberts of Farmington. Mr. Roberts was formerly in the employ of W. L. Roberts of this place.

Miss Emil Daily has returned from Livermore Falls where she has been for a season.

Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Tilton have been entertaining friends from their old parish in New Hampshire.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Forhan are pleasantly located in the Ward house on Pleasant street.

Scots (ele) is at work for Mrs. G. L. Wadlin.

The officers of Evergreen Chapter, O. E. S., were invited to Buckfield on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21st, to exemplify the work of the order at the institution of Mayflower Chapter, No. 133. Mr. Albert H. Newbert, Grand Patron of Rockland, was present and instituted the new chapter. This chapter starts with a promising number of forty charter members with Mrs. Belle Nulty as worthy matron, and Mr. Fred R. Dyer as worthy patron. Visitors were present from Pleasant Chapter, Auburn. A pleasant evening was passed and many were the glad wishes for the prosperity of Mayflower Chapter.

The Misses Alice Leavette and Alice Burke have gone to Rumford Falls to work.

Miss Madeline Douglass is at work for Mrs. O. M. Richardson.

Mrs. Hodgkins of Chesterville has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Hotel in town.

The Misses Mary and Mildred Richardson visited the past week with their aunt, Mrs. W. S. Ingersoll of Jay, and their cousin, Mrs. Maurice House of Livermore Falls.

Miss Jennie Barrows, who is employed in the telephone office at Rumford Falls, was at home over Sunday.

Making It Clear.

"Do they have that wire screen in front of the grand stand to keep spectators from being struck by the ball?" inquired the woman who seldom saw a game.

"In some cities," explained Mr. O'Connell, "it's this for this purpose. It's others its principal use is in keeping the umpire from being struck by bullets."—Washington Star.

Worst Ever.

"Say," remarked the theatrical manager, "your acting last night was certainly the limit!"

"Why, sir, what do you mean?" demanded the newly engaged star.

"Well," answered the manager, "here are a dozen letters I received from deadheads this morning, demanding that their names be erased from the troupe list."—Chicago Daily News.

The Only Way.

"I have got an absolutely sure thing to make a man's hair cease falling out. I'll make a fortune."

"I didn't know you had ever studied law?"

"I haven't. What's that got to do with it?"

"The divorce lawyer is the only man whose recede to stop baldness is a cinch!"—Houston Post.

THE ART OF IRONING.

Easy to Do Well, With a Little Care and Labor.

Some valuable instructions in the art of ironing for the amateur or the professional are given in a recent monthly. Too many people iron carelessly and stupidly, when a little time and labor expended on the proper things for the work before it is begun will greatly lessen the difficulty and shorten the operation. A good light, a clear bright fire, when gas is not used, a good set of irons, not too light, and not too heavy for the work, an ample board covered with a blanket, and a clean cloth towel, are the materials and patience, care and speed, anybody can work with a little practice turn out as good work as a professional. The irons must be kept in good condition, frequently rubbed with brick dust and oil, and polished with a piece of carpet or coarse cloth every time they are used. And they must never be allowed to rust.

Some fastidious people have a objection to having their underclothes ironed at all, for they know the careless ways of inferior domestics, who use dirty irons, mix clean and soiled garments, and leave the clothes hanging in a smoky, fly-ridden kitchen for days at a time. One particular way to have her lingerie brought up to the standard of cleanliness, sweet and fresh from the winds of heaven, and to wear them with only a little padding out of the frills, but for most of that would seem too much to be asked. So teach your maids to be clean, clean and quick about these things. Of course, clothes need to be washed thoroughly, but they are not improved by lying around the kitchen or being dry too long. A simple wrinkle is to make your ironholders round in shape so that they do not hang down over the iron at the corners. A clean cloth on which to rest its heat. Cotton and muslin garments should be dried on a rack of wire, not a wooden one, and to accomplish this purpose a clean cloth and a bowl of cold water are the best combination.—New York Herald.

WATER AS A DISINFECTANT.

One of the Most Valuable for Use in Sick Rooms.

It is a fact not generally taken into account, because but imperfectly understood, that pure, fresh, cold water is one of the most valuable disinfectants, inasmuch as it is a powerful absorbent. Every atom of dirt, every particle of clear water, freely renewed, placed near the bed, even beneath it. This not only absorbs much of the hurtful vapor, but by its evaporation it softens and tempers the atmosphere, doing away with the dryness, which is so trying to persons in health, for that matter. It has frequently been shown by actual experiment that troubled sleep or threatened insomnia are corrected by so simple a thing as the placing of a open bowl of water near the sufferer's bed. On the same principle, viz which has been standing in an open room should under no conditions be used for drinking; nor should it be intended as a beverage to be loved to thus stand open to contamination.—Exchange.

A Good Antiseptic.

Boric acid and boric acid are the same. Every housekeeper should have on hand a supply of this very useful antiseptic. For burns it is unusually excellent. Drop two ounces of the boric acid crystals in a glass jar and fill with water. This makes a saturated solution. Take a piece of gauze or cheesecloth, saturate with the solution and lay on the burn. It is very moist, covering with absorbent cotton and then with oil cloth. This will keep moist for 10 hours. The oil cloth will prevent evaporation. If you haven't the boric acid use a solution of bicarbonate of soda which is nearly as good.

Fills Again in Favor.

Tiny trills are again being seen as muslin and other fine-textured gowns. These were particularly noticeable at a recent fashionable function, when several dresses were worn ornamented in this fashion. One was composed of spotted net, and the skirt had no less than 16 graduated rills each rill being edged with tiny gas ribbon. The bodice was made in this style, with trills to match those of the skirt, and with elbow sleeves also finished with rills. Lace revers, collar, and high collar, and deep belt of rose-tinted China ribbon gave the finishing touches.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Russian Epicurean Coffee.

This coffee is made of a quantity of coffee, fruit and cognac in an open bowl. The coffee is first laid in the bowl and a quantity of finely chopped apples and pears make a second layer. The whole is then covered with cognac, which is lighted, and there is made a highly aromatic and delicious syrup which is the epicurean idea of Russian coffee. At first this appears a strange drink, but it soon becomes very popular. The idea of using fruit with Russians, but it suggests interesting possibilities for experiment.

Bedstead Slicer.

If a bedstead creaks at each move of the sleeper, remove the slats and wrap the ends of each in old newspaper. This will prove a complete slicer.

THE MAN ON THE BOX

By HAROLD MACGRATH.

Warburton made one. Monsieur slipped it slowly, making a wry face, for, true Gaul that he was, only two kinds of stimulants appealed to his palate, liqueurs and wines. He found it as good as any he had ever tasted. "Very good,"—softening. "Zare essee, one thing zat all zee Americans can make, zee cocktail? I am educate; I learn. Now leaf me t'm eight. Keep zee collect head,"—and Monsieur Pierre turned his attention to his partridge. James went out of doors to get a breath of fresh air and to collect his thoughts, which were wool-gathering, whatever that may mean. They needed collecting, these thoughts of his, and labeling, for they were at all points of the compass, and he was at a loss upon which to draw for support. Here he was, in a devil of a fix, and no possible way of escaping except by absolutely bolting; and he vowed that he wouldn't bolt, not if he stood the chance of being exposed 50 times over. He had danced; he was going to pay the fiddler like a man. He had never ran away from anything, and he wasn't going to begin now.

At the worst, they could only laugh at him; but his secret would be his no longer. Ass that he had been! How to tell this girl that he loved her? How to appear to her as his natural self? What a chance he had withfully thrown away! He might have been a guest to-night; he might have sat next to her, turned the pages of her music, and perhaps sighed love in her ear, all of which would have been very proper and conventional. Ah, if he only knew that was going on behind those Mediterranean eyes of hers, those heavenly sapphires. Had she any suspicion? No, it could not be possible; she had humiliated him too often, to suspect the imposture. Alackaday!

Had any one else applied the disreputable terms he applied to himself there would have been a battle royal. When he became out of breath, he re-entered the house to have a final look at the table before the ordeal began. Covers had been laid for 12; immaculate linen, beautiful silver, and sparkling cut-glass. He wondered how much the girl was worth, and thought of his own miserable $4,500 the year. True, his capital could at any time be converted into cash, some $75,000, but it would be no longer the goose with the golden egg. A great bowl of roses stood on a glass center-piece. As he leaned toward them to inhale their perfume he heard a sound. He turned.

She stood framed in a doorway, a picture such as artists conjure up to sit in small corners of gloomy studios; beauty, youth, radiance, luster, happiness. To his ardent eyes she was supremely beautiful. How wildly his heart beat! This was the first time he had seen her in all her glory. His emotion was so strong that he did not observe that she was biting her nether lip.

"Is everything well, James?" she asked, meaning the possibilities of service and not the cardiac intranquility of the servant.

"Very well, Miss Annesley,"—with a sudden bold scrutiny.

Whatever it was she saw in his eyes it had the effect of making hers turn aside. He grew visibly nervous.

"You haven't the hands of a servant, James,"—quietly.

He started and knocked a fork to the floor.

"They are too clumsy," she went on maliciously.

"I am not a butler, Miss; I am a groom. I promise to do the very best I can." Wrath mingled with the shame on his face.

"A man who can do what you did this morning ought not to be afraid of a dinner-table."

"There is some difference between a dinner-table and a horse, Miss." He stooped to recover the fork while she touched her lips with her handkerchief. The situation was becoming unendurable. He knew that, for some reason, she was quietly laughing at him.

Never put back on the table a fork or piece of silver that has fallen to the floor," she advised. "Procture a clean one."

"Yes, Miss. Why in heaven's name didn't she go and leave him in peace? And be very careful not to spill a drop of the burgundy. It is '78, and a particular favorite of my father's."

Seventy-eight! As if he hadn't had many a bottle of that superb vintage during the past ten months! The glands in his teeth opened at the memory of that taste.

"James, we have been in the habit of paying off the servants on this day of the month. Payday comes especially happy this time. It will put good feeling into all, and make the service vastly more expeditious."

She counted out four ten-dollar notes from a roll in her hand and signified him to approach. He took the money, coolly counted it, and put it in his vest pocket.

"Thank you, Miss."

I do not say she looked disappointed, but I assert that she was slightly disconcerted. She never knew the effort he had put forth to subdue the desire to tear the money into shreds, throw it at her feet and leave the house.

"When the gentlemen wish for cigars or cigarettes, you will find them in the usual place, the lower drawer in the sideboard." With a swish she was gone.

He took the money out and studied it. No, he wouldn't tear it up; rather he would put it among his keepsakes.

I shall leave Mr. Robert, or M'sieu Zames, to recover his tranquillity, and describe to you the character and quality of the guests. There was the affable military attache of the British embassy, there was a celebrated American countess, a famous dramatist, and his musical wife, Warburton's late commanding colonel, Mrs. Chadwick.

Opera prima-donna, who would, not sing in opera till February, a cabinet officer and his wife, Col. Annesley and his daughter. You will note the cosmopolitan character of these distinguished persons. Perhaps in no other city in America could they be brought together at an informal dinner such as this one was. There was no question of precedence or any such nonsense.

Everybody knew everybody else, with one exception Col. Raleigh was a comparative stranger. But he was a likeable old fellow, full of stories of the wild, free west, an excellent listener besides, who always stopped a goodly distance on the right side of what is known in polite circles as the bore's dead-line. Warburton held for him a deep affection, marshall though he was, for he was singularly just and merciful.

They had either drunk the cocktail or had set it aside untouched, and had emptied the oyster shells, when the order of the soup began. Very few of those seated gave any attention to my butler. The first thing he did was to drop the silver ladle. Only the girl saw this mishap. She laughed; and Raleigh believed that he had told his story in an exceptionally taking manner. My butler quietly procured another ladle, and proceeded coolly enough. I must confess, however, that his coolness was the result of a physical effort. The soup quivered and trembled outrageously, and more than once he felt the heat of the liquid on his face. This moment his face was pale, that moment it was red. But, as I remarked, few observed him. Why should they? Everybody had something to say to everybody else; and a butler was only a machine anyway. Yet, three persons occasionally looked in his direction: his late colonel, Mrs. Chadwick and the girl; each from a different angle of vision. There was a screw on the colonel's face, puzzlement on Mrs. Chadwick's, and I don't know what the girl's represented, not having been there with my discerning eyes.

Once the American countess raised her lorgnette and murmured: "What a handsome butler!"

Karloff, who sat next to her, twisted his mustache and shrugged. He had seen handsome peasants before. They did not interest him. He glanced across the table at the girl, and was much annoyed that she, too, was gazing at the butler, who had successfully completed the distribution of the soup and who now stood with folded arms by the sideboard. (How I should have liked to see him!)

When the butler took away the soup-plates, Col. Raleigh turned to his host. "George, where the deuce did you pick up that butler?"

Annesley looked vaguely across the table at his old comrade. He had been far away in thought. He had eaten nothing.

"What?" he asked.

"I asked you where the deuce you got that butler of yours."

"Oh, Betty found him somewhere. Our own butler is away on a vacation. I had not noticed him. Why?"

"Well, if he doesn't look like a cub lieutenant of mine, I was born without recollection of faces. I was born without recollection of faces."

"An orderly of yours, a lieutenant, did you say?" asked Betty, with smoldering fires in her eyes.

"Yes."

"That is strange," he mused.

"Yes; very strange. He was a dare-devil if there ever was one."

"Ah!"

"Yes; best bump of location in the regiment, and the steadiest nerve,"—dropping his voice.

The girl leaned on her lovely arms and observed him interestedly.

"A whole company got lost in a snowstorm. You know that on the prairie a snowstorm means that only a compass can tell you where you are; and there wasn't one in the troop—a bad piece of carelessness on the captain's part. Well, this cub said he'd find the way back, and the captain wisely let him take the boys in hand."

"Go on," said the girl.

"Interested, eh?"

"I am a soldier's daughter, and I love the recital of brave deeds."

"Well, he did it. Four hours later they were thawed out in the barracks kitchen. Another hour and not one of them would have lived to tell the tale. The whiskey they poured into my cub—"

"Did he drink?" she interrupted.

"Drink? Why the next day he was going to lick the men who had poured the stuff down his throat. A toddy once in a while, that was all he ever took. And how he loved a fight! He had the tenacity of a bulldog; once he got his mind on getting something, he never let up till he got it."

The girl smiled thoughtfully with a rose.

"Was he ever in an Indian fight?" she asked, casually.

"Only scraps and the like. He went into the reservation alone one day and arrested a chief who had murdered a sheep-herder. It was a volunteer job, and nine men out of ten would never have left the reservation alive. He was certainly a cool hand."

"I dare say,"—smiling. She wanted to ask him if he had ever been hurt, this daredevil of a lieutenant, but she could not bring the question to her lips. "What did you say his name was?"—innocently.

"Warburton, Robert Warburton."

Here the butler came in with the birds. The girl's eyes followed him, hither and thither her lips hidden behind the rose.

CHAPTER XVIII.

CAUGHT!

Karloff came around to music. The dramatist's wife should play Tosti's Ave Maria. Miss Annesley should play the obligato on the violin and the prima-donna should sing; but just at present the dramatist should tell them all about his new military play which was to be produced in December.

"Count, I beg to decline," laughed the dramatist. "I should hardly dare to tell my plot before two such military experts as we have here. I should be told to write the play all over again, and now it is too late."

Whenever Betty's glances fell on her father's face, the gladness in her own was somewhat dimmed. What was making that loved face so care-worn, the mind so listless, the attitude so weary? But she was young; the spirits of youth never flow long in one direction. The repartee, brilliant and as the same time every sting withdrawn, flashed up and down the table like so many fireflies on a wet lawn in July, and drew her irresistibly.

As the courses came and passed, so the conversation became less and less general; and by the time the fées were served the colonel had engaged his host, and the others divided into twos. Then coffee, liqueurs and cigars, when the ladies rose and trailed into the little Turkish room, where the "distinguished-looking butler" supplied them with the amber juice.

A dinner is a function where everybody talks and nobody eats. Some have eaten before they come, some wish they had, and others dare not eat for fear of losing some of the gossip.

After the liqueurs my butler concluded that his labor was done and he offered a short prayer of thankfulness and relief. Heavens, what mad, fantastic impulses had seized him while he was passing the soup. Supposing he had spilled the hot liquid down Karloff's back, or poured out a glass of burgundy for himself and drained it before them all, or slapped his late colonel on the back and asked him the state of his liver? It was maddening and he marvelled at his escape. There hadn't been a real mishap. The colonel had only scowled at him; he was safe. He passed secretly from the house and hung around the bow-window which let out on the low balcony. The window was open, and occasionally he could hear a voice from beyond the room, which was dark.

It was one of those nights, those mild November nights, to which the novelists of the old regime used to devote a whole page; the silvery pallor on the landscape, the moon-mists, the sound, white, inevitable moon, the stirring breeze, the murmur of the few remaining leaves, and all that. But these busy days we have not the time to read nor the inclination to describe.

EXPERIENCES ON THE ROAD.

Gleanings from the Scrap Book of an Old-Time Actor.

The late William F. Owen, an old-school actor, who toured with Booth, left behind him an interesting scrap-book of press notices. Though famous in later life, Mr. Owen in his youth often toured with companies that were none too successful. He was fond of showing two notices from a northern paper regarding one of these companies. The first was an advance notice, prompted by a heavy advertising order. The second was a review of the performance, inspired by the fact that the advertising bill had not been paid.

"Next Monday evening," ran the advance notice, "our people will be favored with a treat such as we seldom enjoy in our little city. The world-famous Garrick Dramatic company, presenting the sparkling comedy, 'Wood and Won,' will appear at Dub's hall with a company of artists whom it is a pleasure and a duty to commend to the favorable notice of all lovers of pure and refined comedy."

After the company's departure without paying up the editor wrote: "Last Monday night a tenth-rate gang of barnstormers held forth to a slim and suffering audience in Dub's hall. They performed, or rather murdered, a piece called 'Wood and Won,' a dreary collection of gags, jokes and conundrums older than the ark."

"If there is a member of this combination with enough dramatic ability to turn a grindstone without the aid of a prempier, he didn't appear on Monday night. The only wonder is that when so palpable a fraud as this cheap aggregation of actors comes to town anybody can be found who cares to waste a quarter to help the pestilent mummers on to the next town."

Distinction of Riches.

"I do wish we were rich, father."

"How rich would you like to be, Arabella?"

"Oh, awfully rich. So rich that people would ask what set we were in."

Milwaukee Sentinel.

Getting Wise.

"How is it you are going to the moonlight excursion this week and last week I couldn't get you to go?"

"There was too much moonlight last week."—Houston Post.

The Difference.

She—Is there any difference between a fort and a fortress?

Her Husband—Well, I should think that a fortress would be harder to silence.

PETTENGILL SCHOOL OBSERVE THANKSGIVING.

The scholars in grades seven and eight of the Pettengill school observed Thanksgiving day Wednesday afternoon with a very appropriate program. The first number on the program was the singing of America by the school, followed by the reading of the ninety-second Psalm. "The Landing of the Pilgrims" was sung by Zephie Stephens, Artemise Gauthier, Beatrice Jodrie, Louise Strasburg, Frances Wheat, Ruth McGregor, and Arthur Kendall as pianist. A recitation by Louise Strasburg was followed by a violin solo by Marie Bartlett. Thanksgiving memory gems, quotations appropriate to the occasion, were given by Ralph Woodsum, Robert Clancy, Carl McMenamin and Donald McMaster. Mrs. Marion Reed, teacher of the class, sang a solo and was accompanied by Arthur Kendall at the piano. A recitation entitled, "Whittier's Pumpkins," by Zephie Stephens closed this very entertaining program.

BROKE HIS LEG.

Joseph Gilas, an employee of the International Paper Company, had his right leg broken while at work Saturday morning. The accident was caused by a quantity of heavy pulp falling on his leg. Both bones were broken about five inches above the ankle. He was taken to the office of Drs. Bisbee and McCarthy where the bones were set, and at the last report he was getting along nicely.

The best treatment for indigestion and troubles of the stomach is to rest the stomach. It can be rested by starvation or by the use of a good digestant which will digest the food eaten, thus taking the work off the stomach. At the proper temperature, a single teaspoonful of Kodol will wholly digest 2,000 grains of food. It relieves the present annoyance, puts the stomach in shape to satisfactorily perform its functions. Good for indigestion, sour stomach, flatulence, palpitation of the heart and dyspepsia. Kodol is made in strict conformity with the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Bowers & Vallee.

"For years I starved, then I bought a 50 cent bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, and what that bottle did for me all the gold in Georgia could not buy. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work as a machinist. In three months I was well and hearty as I ever was. I used a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic. May you live long and prosper!"
